About the programme

SOUTNA aims to strengthen civil society organisations in Iraq, their networks and their advocacy voice at local and national level. It works with around 180 organisations.

Who we're looking for

An independent content creator or social media manager, a small team, or a media company. Individuals can apply even if they work with photographers or designers in other governorates. Just name them in your application.

Monthly work

- Managing Cordaid Iraq's Facebook, Instagram and LinkedIn: a monthly content plan approved in advance, 16 posts a month, and replies to comments and messages.
- Two field days covering programme activities (photo and video) in the governorate where the activity takes place.
- Two short videos (reels).
- Four design items (infographics, posters, post templates).
- A short monthly report on reach, engagement and follower growth.

The work also includes content support for advocacy campaigns within the monthly posts, and compliance with Cordaid and donor visibility rules.

On request only (separate work order): extra field day, podcast episode, extra design item, editing day.

Travel: For activities outside your city, Cordaid covers transport and accommodation under its policy, or you can use a local collaborator from your team.

Financial offer: Quote a fixed monthly fee in USD, all-inclusive except out-of-town travel. Do not include paid advertising or influencer fees.

Duration: November 2026 to May 2028, with a 3-month trial period.

Contract: Individuals get a service provider or consultant contract, with no company registration needed. Companies get a standard service contract. Fees are subject to tax deductions under Iraqi law.

Requirements

- At least two years of experience in content production or social media management.
- Good Arabic. Kurdish (Sorani) is an advantage and can come from a team member.
- No work for any political party or coalition during the contract.

Evaluation: 70% quality of work and experience, 30% price. Shortlisted applicants may be invited to a short interview.
